The Role of Local Governments in Reducing the Risk of Disasters

Edited by
Katalin Demeter . Ayşe Güner..... Nihal Ekin Erkan

Contents
Foreword
Acknowledgements
Contributors
Editor’s Note

Part One: Introduction: Concepts and Framework
1. The Turkish Government Structure from a Disaster Management Perspective Rüşen Keleş
2. Local Administration and Risk Management Murat Balamir
3. Macroeconomic Impacts of Natural Disasters Reinhard Mechler
4. Disaster Management Policies in Turkey Nevin Peyircioğlu

Part Two: Sustainable Cities
5. Disaster Risk Reduction and Sustainable Development Fouad Bendimerad
6. Earthquake Vulnerability of Buildings and a Mitigation Strategy: Case of Istanbul Mustafa Erdik
7. The Reconstruction of Bhuj B.R. Balachandran

Part Three: Risk Identification, Mitigation and Transfer
8. Seismic Risk Assessment Survey of Urban Buildings Haluk Sucuoğlu and Ufuk Yazgan
9. Seismic Risk Assessment and Mitigation Strategy in Armenia Mikayel Melkumyan
10. A Model-based Stakeholder Approach for Designing a Disaster Insurance Joanne Linnerooth-Bayer, Anna Vári
11. The Turkish Catastrophe Insurance Pool (TCIP) and the Compulsory Earthquake Insurance Scheme Selamet Yazıcı

Part Four: Improving Preparedness to Natural Disasters
12. Preparedness to Natural Disasters: An Overview Paul Freeman
13. Emergency Management in Turkey Adil Özdemir
14. The Role of Local Governments in Reducing the Risk of Disasters Yakup Bilgin Koçal
Part Five: Building the Culture of Prevention

15. Informed Ownership, Training, and Organization for Successful Disaster Preparedness
   Güler Okman Fisek, Nur Yeniçeri, Gökçe Özkarar

16. Knowledge Management for Risk Management
   Istvan Fogarasi

17. Risk Mitigation and the Role of the Media
   Gürhan Ertur and Argun Yum

18. Twin-City Cooperation and International Assistance in Emergency Situations
   Andrea Lovei

19. Working with Earthquake Victims
   Ayşegül Şenol